JEDCO signs 13 linkage agreements between farmers, exporters

The Jordan Enterprise Development Corporation (JEDCO) on Monday signed 13 linkage agreements between farmers, exporters and hypermarket owners as part of one of the "Rural Economic Growth and Employment Project - REGEP" activities. The project, implemented by JEDCO, is funded by the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD). The signing of these agreements comes as part of the project's plan, in cooperation with the Jordan Exporters and Producers Association for Fruit and Vegetables (JEPA) which aims at helping small-scale farmers and producers to benefit from the project by opening marketing windows to promote their products and build their capabilities through cooperation with exporters and hypermarket owners, according to a statement by JEDCO. During the signing ceremony, JEDCO CEO Bashar Zu'bi said that in 2015, the project came within the framework of economic development and employment to reduce poverty and unemployment by providing successful economic projects in the rural areas, targeting women and youth.
