Parliament's second ordinary session begins

The Senate on Sunday held its first meeting of the second ordinary session which was inaugurated by His Majesty King Abdullah with the Speech from the Throne. Senate President Faisal Fayez, in the presence of Prime Minister Hani Mulki and Cabinet members, said that the Speech from the Throne encompassed all local and regional issues, expressing the Upper House's keenness to fully cooperate with the Lower House and government members to enhance efficiency, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, reported. The Upper House elected members of the committee that will reply to the Speech from the Throne, which include senators Marouf Bakhit, Rajai Muasher, Bassam Talhouni, Samir Murad and Haydar Mahmoud.

Petra witnesses 'considerable' rise in tourist numbers

The number of tourists who visited Petra in 2017 increased "considerably" compared to the previous year, an official said. Petra Development and Tourism Region Authority (PDTRA) President Mohammad Nawafleh said that, since January this year, 521, 000 visitors entered Petra, compared to 461, 000 during all of 2016. PDTRA said they expect the number to reach 650,000 by the end of 2017. In October, the average number of visitors per day reached 1, 800, Nawafleh said.

"The number of tourists visiting the ancient city until November has recorded a promising increase towards the end of the year, considering that November and December are part of the high season during which the rose-red city is supposed to receive more visitors," Nawafleh told The Jordan Times over the phone on Sunday.

German Development Bank grants Jordan 10m euros for education programme

Minister of Planning Imad Fakhoury and executive member of the German Development Bank (KfW) Joachim Nagel on Sunday signed the Financing Agreement of the second phase of the "School Construction Programme", granting an aid of 10 million euros for the construction of new schools and the expansion of those already existing across the Kingdom.

The programme aims to contribute to the improvement of learning conditions and access to education for all children. Its target sites will be located in areas with a high density of vulnerable children from Jordan and Syria, according to a KfW statement.
