King to hold summit with Russia's Putin Thursday

His Majesty King Abdullah on Thursday is scheduled to hold a summit meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin, during a working visit to Moscow. Discussion will focus on relations between both countries and the latest regional and international developments, especially the Syrian crisis, the peace process and the war on terrorism, according to a Royal Court statement. Jordan has partnered with Russia and the US in creating and successfully sustaining a de-escalation zone in south Syria. Meanwhile, the Royal Court announced that King Abdullah will meet on Wednesday with US State Secretary Rex Tillerson. Tillerson is expected in Amman, as part of a regional tour that will also take him to Turkey, Lebanon, Egypt and Kuwait between February 11–16, a US embassy statement said.

Jordan to go ahead with Red-Dead project 'regardless of Israeli position'

Jordan is committed to implementing the Red Sea-Dead Sea Water Conveyance Project despite repeated Israeli signals that it was withdrawing from the regional scheme, a source said on Sunday. "It is clear that Israel is no longer interested in the Red-Dead Project given repeated news reports casting doubt on its necessity, feasibility and agenda," the source, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, told The Jordan Times. The official warned that Israel's frequently suggested withdrawal from the project and deliberate creation of stumbling blocks to hold the project back can "only hurt regional stability". "We are ready to press ahead with the project, but Israel has been repeatedly hindering it for some time, now and this is disrupting regional cooperation and undermining the slightest chances for peace in the Middle East," the source noted.

SSC, Hajj Fund sign agreements on loan instalments

The Social Security Corporation (SSC) on Sunday signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Hajj Fund to facilitate payments of loan instalments taken from the fund by SSC's subscribers, according to an SSC statement.

The MoU entails payment of the monthly instalments through a deduction from the beneficiaries' retirement salary to save time and effort. The corporation will deduct from the beneficiaries' salaries only upon an official letter issued by the retiree. The SSC employees can also benefit from the fund's loans and services, according to the memo. Awqaf Minister Wael Arabiyat said that this memo "paves the way for a comprehensive coordination between the fund and SSC, which benefits the retirees in legal framework".
