Most public shareholding companies comply with JSC disclosure regulations

A total of 191 companies out of 194 public shareholding companies listed in the Amman Stock Exchange, that is 98.4 per cent, have disclosed their financial statements for the second quarter (semi-annual) to the Jordan Securities Commission (JSC) in the English language, according to JSC President Mohammad Hourani. The step is in compliance with the JSC regulations that mandate that public shareholding companies disclose their financial statements in English, as of February 2. This is in line with efforts exerted to develop and regulate the Jordanian capital market, he said in a JSC statement.

Consumer prices go up by 3.7% in first half

Inflation, measured through consumer prices, rose by 3.7 per cent in the first half of 2017 compared to the figure recorded at the same period of 2016, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, reported on Tuesday. According to the Department of Statistics report, an increase in transportation charges was the main cause for the computed rise.
