King urges high-quality, smooth delivery of municipal services

His Majesty King Abdullah on Sunday, during a visit to the Greater Amman Municipality (GAM), stressed that citizens have the right to receive high-quality services through easy procedures. His Majesty also highlighted the importance of acquainting citizens with updates on work progress in GAM-implemented projects, especially those related to the public transport sector, according to a Royal Court statement. King Abdullah had a first-hand look at achievements realised in implementing GAM plans aimed at improving services presented to citizens, especially those related to the public transport and electronic transformation.

'Majority of workers in Jordan are not paid enough to afford a decent life

Working conditions in the Kingdom remain "far from the decent work standards" and continue to deteriorate in several economic sectors, according to a position paper issued on Sunday by the Phenix Centre for Economic and Informatics Studies in cooperation with the German Friedrich Ebert Foundation. The paper was issued on the occasion of World Day for Decent Work, held annually by the International Trade Union Confederation on October 7, with the aim of mobilising trade unions across the globe to promote decent work standards. According to the definition by the International Labour Organisation (ILO), decent work "sums up the aspirations of people in their working lives", involving opportunities for productive work positions that deliver "a fair income, security in the workplace and social protection for families, better prospects for personal development and social integration, freedom for people to express their concerns, organise and participate in the decisions that affect their lives and equality of opportunity and treatment for all women and men".

Farmers worried 'cheated' olive oil could drive customers away from local producers

The JD120 million olive and olive oil agricultural industry faces major challenges ahead of the olive harvesting season, including "the selling of cheated olive oil", spokesperson for the Jordanian Farmers Union Nedal Samaeen, told The Jordan Times on Sunday. "The olive trees sector occupies around 77 per cent of the total lands for fruitful trees, in addition to contributing around JD120 million to the GDP," said Mahmoud Oran, general manager of the Jordan Olive Oil Producers Association. In addition to generating income, the olive tree sector also has "a cultural sentiment" in people's minds, added Oran. However, the upcoming olive harvesting season has sparked talk about the challenges that the sector still faces, and unoriginal olive oil being sold is one of them. "The biggest problem we face is that some con artists have skilfully blended various oils and chemical substances together to trick citizens into purchasing cheated oil," an agricultural engineer who preferred to remain unnamed, told The Jordan Times on Sunday.
