King, Japan PM discuss opportunities to boost ties, regional challenges

His Majesty King Abdullah's talks with Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe in Tokyo on Tuesday focused on opportunities to advance political and economic cooperation, and bolster the strategic partnership between Japan and Jordan. King Abdullah and Prime Minister Abe affirmed their commitment to developing bilateral ties and maintaining coordination and consultation over issues of mutual concern, in service of the two peoples, a Royal Court statement said. Abe said, "Japan will continue to firmly support Jordan" through its public and private sectors. "Jordan is an indispensable and critically important strategic partner", the prime minister added, in remarks to the press after the talks.

QAIA welcomes 9.2% more travellers in October

Queen Alia International Airport (QAIA) shattered last October's record of travellers, marking a 9.2 per cent increase, to 654,791 travellers, according to a statement by the Airport International Group. Aircraft movement also increased by 11.5 per cent, whereas the overall amount of cargo shipped via QAIA declined 7.9 per cent, compared to October 2017. Since January 2018, QAIA welcomed more than 7.19 million travellers, up until the end of October; approximately 5.8 per cent more than it did during the same duration last year. The increases come as some low-budget airlines have established new flight routes, via QAIA, to and from several European countries throughout the year.

Egyptian gas expected to reach Jordan in January - minister

Egyptian gas is expected to reach Jordan in January after experimental pumping started in September, Jordan's energy minister said on Monday. The two countries are currently in talks to agree on the pricing of the Egyptian gas, Hala Zawati told a Arab mining conference in Cairo. Zawati had said that Jordan aims eventually to increase natural gas imports from Egypt to cover a third of its demand.
