Jordan's focus on stimulating economic growth through reforms

Minister of Planning and International Cooperation Mary Kawar on Sunday said that Jordan is expected to receive around $3 billion in foreign aid in 2019, on par with last year's figure. In a statement carried by the Jordan News Agency, Petra, Kawar said that foreign aid this year will support the government's response plan for hosting Syrian refugees. "The London conference was the first step towards launching a new set of reforms, sending a message to the international community of Jordan's keenness to achieve financial stability and decrease national debt," Kawar stated on the sidelines of the 2019 World Economic Forum (WEF).

Exporters hope Jordan-Iraq trade will pick up as agreements go into effect

Traffic at the Karameh border between Jordan and Iraq is "slowly picking up" as numerous agreements signed in the past months are going into effect, according to President of the Jordan Truck Owners Association (JTOA) Mohammad Dawood. Dawood noted that "more concessions" have been made since the two sides eased entry regulations for trucks in November 2018. Trucks before were only permitted to transport goods back-to-back due to security reasons, adding that an additional condition required at least 200 trucks to queue up at the border before being allowed entry to Iraq, he said.

Huawei to establish 3 ICT academies in Jordan to train 3,000 youth

The ICT Ministry and Huawei Technologies on Sunday signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) to enhance cooperation in developing the capabilities of young leaders and employees in the Kingdom's technology sector. Under the MoU, signed on the sidelines of the World Economic Forum (WEF) on the Middle East and North Africa that concluded on Sunday at the Dead Sea, three Huawei academies will be established in cooperation with three public universities to provide advanced ICT training for some 3,000 students and public employees for three years, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, reported.
